ASSESSMENT

The examination will test candidates' ability to demonstrate their understanding of the topics covered by the syllabus both conceptually and also in terms of their ability to communicate this understanding in the English language. The assessment of the candidates being examined in this subject will be by oral examination.

The period of the examination will be up to 2 hours during which time the candidate will be examined by a panel of nominated examiners which shall consist of not less than 2 and not more than 4 members.

Immediately prior to the examination, the candidate will be provided with a copy of an examination paper consisting of 8 questions of which he or she may nominate 4 to be examined upon. An English dictionary and a copy of a law dictionary (Mozley and Whiteley's law dictionary by J. E. Penner) shall also be provided. The candidate shall be permitted 45 minutes to consider questions and to choose the 4 to be examined upon. The candidate shall then be called before a panel of examiners. When called before the panel, the candidate should take the questions supplied upon which he or she is to be examined.

The candidates may consult notes that they have made on the questions supplied but they must not consult any other notes, books or other materials. The questions are the only documents that may be brought into the examination room and at the conclusion of the examination, candidates will be required to leave the questions supplied at the test venue as directed.

The assessment of each candidate shall be undertaken by the panel members by listening to and assessing the candidate's answers to the nominated questions appearing in the examination paper and also to any supplementary questions put by the individual panel members in the course of the examination.

At the end of the examination period, each examiner shall allocate a score based on their assessment of the candidate's performance in dealing with the examination questions and supplementary questions. The average of the scores allocated by panel members shall be the final mark allocated to the candidate concerned.

Each candidate's performance may be recorded on video tape for the purpose of later consideration and assessment if necessary.

2. Examiners' Comments on the 2020, 2021 and 2022 Examinations

Examiners' Comments on the 2020 Examination

Head V: Principles of Common Law

The examination paper consisted of four parts:

Part A (Constitutional Law & Introduction to Legal System);

Part B (Law of Contract);

Part C (Introduction to Law of Torts); and

Part D (Criminal Law).

The examination paper had ten questions and the candidates were asked to attempt one question from each part. The candidates were given 45 minutes reading time. After the expiry of the reading time, each was given an oral examination by two Examiners.

A few more Hong Kong cases could have been given to substantiate the answers given.

Generally, the candidates were aware of the relevant legal principles and were able to link them up to the facts of the questions and provide answers that correctly answered those questions. Pleasingly, a number of answers revealed a superior understanding and analysis of the salient issues.

At times, a deeper understanding might have been provided by referring to the names (short citations are acceptable here) and facts of some applicable cases.

Past candidates performed better on questions concerning Contract Law and Legal System compared with questions on Tort and Criminal Law. For Criminal Law in particular, topics like "murder", "voluntary manslaughter" & "involuntary manslaughter" are not easy to tackle and future candidates may need to consider placing greater attention to those subjects, if they have not dealt with them before.

This year was particularly challenging as Zoom arrangements were made for candidates and examiners to be in separate rooms for social distancing purposes. Nonetheless, the examination proceeded smoothly and no technical issues occurred which were reported to have affected any of the candidates. Thanks to the Law Society staff for their hard work in preparation.

Examiners' Comments on the 2021 Examination

Head V: Principles of Common Law

The examination paper consisted of four parts:

Part A (Constitutional Law & Introduction to Legal System);

Part B (Law of Contract);

Part C (Introduction to Law of Torts); and

Part D (Criminal Law).

The examination paper had eight questions and the candidates were asked to attempt one question from each part. The candidates were given 45 minutes reading time. After the expiry of the reading time, each was given an oral examination by two Examiners.

Generally, the candidates were aware of the relevant legal principles and were able to link them up to the facts of the questions and provide answers that correctly addressed those questions. There was a range in the standards exhibited.

Case law was not very frequently cited. A few more cases, especially Hong Kong cases could have been given to substantiate the answers.

Candidates appear to find questions concerning Contract Law and Legal System easier to answer compared with questions on Tort and Criminal Law. For Criminal Law, it may be considered whether we can venture into crimes apart from the usual murder /manslaughter areas.

Like for the 2020 exam, Zoom arrangements were made for candidates and examiners to be in separate rooms for social distancing purposes. All sessions proceeded smoothly and no technical issues occurred which were reported to have affected any of the candidates. Thanks to the Law Society staff for their hard work in preparation.

Examiners' Comments on the 2022 Examination

Head V: Principles of Common Law

The Head V Examination paper consisted of 4 parts-
Part A (Constitutional Law & Introduction to Legal System)
Part B (Law of Contract)
Part C (Introduction to Law of Torts) and
Part D (Criminal Law)

The Head V Examination paper consisted of 4 parts and each part comprised with 2 questions. The candidates were required to answer 1 question from each part. All candidates were given 45 minutes reading time. After the expiry of the reading time, each candidate was given an oral examination by 2 Examiners.

Generally, the candidates were aware of the relevant legal principles and were able to apply them to the facts of the questions and provide correct answers to those questions. The candidates were able to demonstrate in depth understanding and analysis of the core issues. Most candidates were able to support their answers by citing the relevant case law.

The candidates performed best on questions concerning Legal System of Hong Kong. Some candidates, at times, overlooked some issues with questions on Contract and Tort. With a bit of prompting, candidates were able to answer the questions more fully. Overall speaking, candidates were less capable in answering questions on topics of murder and diminishing responsibility. It is advisable for future candidates to have clear understandings of the provisions as set out in the Homicide Ordinance.

2020 Overseas Lawyers Qualification Examination

Head V: Principles of Common Law

Part A (Constitutional Law & Introduction to Legal System)

Question 1 (25 marks)

You are watching a television programme with your friend. Two political commentators are debating if Hong Kong is an “executive-led government” or if its government can be defined as possessing a “separation of powers”. Your friend turns to you and asks: “What does separation of powers mean?”

(a) Explain the doctrine of the separation of powers.

(10 marks)

One of the commentators on the programme remarks that: “The term ‘separation of powers’ is not stated in the Basic Law.”

(b) To what extent is the doctrine of the separation of powers reflected in the Basic Law?

(15 marks)

(See over the page for a continuation of Part A)

Question 2 (25 marks)

Part A

A relative of yours is seeking damages for HK$50,000 in a contract dispute.

- (a) Explain what the Small Claims Tribunal can do in respect of your relative's claim.

(5 marks)

Part B

- (b) Explain what the mischief rule is with respect to statutory interpretation. Discuss with respect to the purposive approach.

(10 marks)

Part C

- (c) Explain what "Persuasive Authorities" are.

(10 marks)

End of Part A

Part B (Law of Contract)

Question 3 (25 marks)

Television International Limited (“TVI”) planned to organize “Hong Kong’s Got Talent” (“HGT”), a talent competition in Hong Kong. TVI approached Britney Pears (“Britney”), a famous local singer, to perform on the HGT opening night and on the closing night when the competition finals would be held.

TVI found the performance fee proposed by Britney to be too expensive. TVI’s General Manager, Simon Kao (“Simon”), told Britney that TVI could not afford to pay more than HK$300,000, but that perhaps some other benefit could be arranged. Simon said that TVI had invited world famous judges for the competition. The judges were looking for singers to perform at prestigious musical festivals around the world. Singing in front of them might bring Britney further global performing opportunities.

Britney decided to use the opportunity to help her friend Nick and his group “The Low Moons”, an up-and-coming band. She asked Simon if The Low Moons could also perform on 8 June 2020, the closing night. Simon replied: “That should be okay. If you sign with us, we will invite The Low Moons to perform on the closing night for HK$40,000. We will pay them after their performance.”

Eventually, TVI and Britney signed a contract - Britney would be paid HK$300,000 in total to perform on both evenings. She would receive HK$180,000 on signing the contract (which she could keep regardless of whether she performed on the opening night), and HK$120,000 after performing on the closing night. The contract also mentioned the agreement regarding The Low Moons.

Excited about the TVI opportunity, The Low Moons turned down an offer they had received to perform on 8 June 2020 at a small concert in Kowloon for HK$15,000. However, a few days before the start of HGT, TVI informed The Low Moons that they were no longer needed. Britney was upset and refused to perform at either the HGT opening or closing nights. She later found out that the singer who replaced her was asked by the judges to perform at a few well known music festivals in Europe.

Britney has received HK$180,000 from TVI, but The Low Moons have not been paid anything.

(a) Advise Britney of her rights and/or liabilities against TVI.

(20 marks)

(b) Advise The Low Moons of their rights against TVI.

(5 marks)

(See the next page for a continuation of Part B)

Question 4 (25 marks)

Will, a musician, recently decided to go into the events venue business. He rented a floor of an industrial building and engaged Tubby Tunes Limited (“Tubby Tunes”), a specialist sound/lighting systems engineering firm, to put in a state-of-the-art sound system, special lighting and installations for special effects suitable for band performances and disco events. Will paid a deposit of HK$50,000 to Tubby Tunes. Tubby Tunes’ manager, Charlie, phoned Will to say: “Don’t worry. We will make sure that we have a licensed electrician in charge of this. We have been in the business for a long time and only use licensed electricians.” In fact, the licensed electrician who worked with Tubby Tunes had been on sick leave for over two weeks and was unlikely to return to work for another month.

Tubby Tunes signed a contract with Will for the work for a total fee of HK$200,000. The contract did not mention the engagement of a licensed electrician. Tubby Tunes engaged Harry to install the wiring system for the whole floor. Harry completed the installations in three weeks. Will then got the whole floor painted and purchased furniture which was delivered.

The day before his venue was due to be hired out for the first event, Will decided to try out the sound effects himself. However, as soon as he plugged in his electric guitar, keyboard, the speakers and other equipment, the wiring short-circuited. The sparks hit the curtain fabric and the venue caught fire. Because final renovations were still ongoing in the venue, there was some flammable liquid lying around. Large parts of the venue were burnt, although the fire was eventually put out.

The venue suffered a lot of fire damage. Much of the furniture and equipment was burnt. Will had to cancel all the venue bookings for three months and had to pay damages to customers whose bookings were cancelled.

Will himself suffered burns and required extensive burn treatment for four months, which cost him HK$100,000 in medical fees.

It was discovered that Harry had incorrectly installed the wiring in the venue, leading to the short circuiting. Harry was not a licensed electrician, but only an assistant working at Tubby Tunes who was studying a course of electrical engineering at the Hong Kong Institute of Vocational Education.

- (a) Advise Will of his rights against Tubby Tunes regarding the loss caused by the damage to the venue and his injuries.

(16 marks)

- (b) Would your answer be different if the contract contained wording which said: “Any liability incurred by Tubby Tunes Limited for any negligence, loss or damage to any property or person howsoever caused by the acts of its contractors, subcontractors or employees shall be limited to HK$10,000.”?

(9 marks)

See the next page for a continuation of Part B)

Question 5 (25 marks)

Answer both parts (a) and (b).

(a) Davy decided to sell a few pieces from his Ming dynasty furniture collection. He approached a few collectors and dealers, all of whom expressed an interest. The following takes place:

- Davy emailed Ivan on Monday morning and offered to sell two Imperial chairs to Ivan for HK$1,000,000. Davy said that he would keep the offer open until 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday.
- On Monday afternoon, James, another dealer, offered to buy the chairs for HK$1,200,000. Davy was happy with the higher offer and sold the chairs to James. James was so happy with the purchase that he posted a picture of himself with the chairs on his social media account.
- Ivan saw this picture. He emailed Davy immediately late on Monday night to accept the offer to purchase the chairs at HK$1,000,000.
- On Tuesday morning, Davy telephoned Cliff offering to sell him a set of cupboards from his collection. Cliff agreed to buy them. However, on Tuesday afternoon, Davy received a higher offer from another collector. He telephoned Cliff to tell Cliff that he could not sell the cupboards to him.

(See over the page for a continuation of Question 5)

- On Wednesday, Davy met Frank in the street and told him that he would sell him a set of tables from the collection for HK$300,000. Frank agreed to buy them and to pay Davy and take delivery in two weeks. However, Davy lost a lot of money on the stock market during the following two weeks. Frank found out about this and called Davy to say that he was no longer willing to pay HK$300,000 but only HK$200,000 for the tables. Davy accepted this because he needed the money to pay off some of his losses.

(1) Advise Ivan and Cliff whether they have a binding contract with Davy and their rights against him.

(8 marks)

(2) Advise Davy of his rights against Frank.

(7 marks)

(b) Passion Foods Ltd. (“Passion”) sources specialty foods for hotels in Hong Kong. In August 2020 it entered into the following contracts:

- it agreed to supply to The Pacific Hotel 500 dozens of French oysters for consumption at the Oyster Festival to be held at the hotel in September 2020; and
- it agreed to supply to The Atlantic Hotel 1,000 legs of Iberian dry-cured ham from Spain. This is a very popular item and the hotel expected a large number of 2020 Christmas orders.

(See the next page for a continuation of Question 5)

Passion placed orders for these foods with the respective food item suppliers.

A flood occurred at the Pacific Hotel during a storm in late August and the hotel had to be closed for three months for repairs. All events scheduled at the hotel during the three-month period were cancelled. A disease broke out at many Spanish pig farms in September, severely reducing the supply of dry-cured ham. The ham would now cost three times as much to source, and Passion would lose money on the contract.

Advise whether Passion's contracts with The Pacific Hotel and The Atlantic Hotel can be treated as frustrated and the consequences, if the contracts are found to be frustrated.

Part C (Introduction to Law of Torts)

Question 6 (25 marks)

At 10:00 a.m. on Thursday, 16 January 2020, Angel, a financial consultant, who was feeling very sick, registered to see a doctor at a private medical clinic in Central. Whilst Angel was waiting to see a doctor, she received a telephone call from a client, Ben. Ben told Angel that he had heard a rumour of an unknown virus that was making people ill and a rumour that some ill people had died. Ben was worried about the effect of this unknown virus on the Hong Kong stock market and asked if he should sell his Hong Kong shares.

Angel, who was feeling very sick and had not heard of the rumours about the virus, told Ben that she was in no position to advise him on what to do with his Hong Kong shares. Angel stressed that she did not give investment advice based on rumours but only on research and analysis. She also told Ben that she was sick and sitting in a medical clinic waiting to see a doctor.

Ben was very persistent and kept asking Angel if he should sell his Hong Kong shares. Under the persistent demands for advice from Ben, Angel suggested that he should not sell his Hong Kong shares, as she felt that the unknown virus would be contained and would not affect the Hong Kong stock market.

Following this conversation Ben did not sell his Hong Kong shares. The Hong Kong shares dropped significantly in value the day after his conversation with Angel, when the existence of the deadly virus was confirmed by the government.

Ben claims to have lost HK$15 million as a result of not selling his Hong Kong shares on 16 January 2020.

Discuss any tort actions that Ben might have against Angel in respect of his alleged HK$15 million loss. Support your discussion with reference to relevant principles and authorities.

(25 marks)

(See over the page for a continuation of Part C)

Question 7 (25 marks)

Mavis Chan (“Mavis”) was a 22-year-old student, living in a hostel, at the University of Shatin (“US”) in the New Territories, Hong Kong. For some time, she had been suffering from stress due to study and examination pressures. She had told her mother, Eva Chan (“Eva”), about her stress problems and had also spoken to the US counselling service about her stress problems.

Recently Eva had noticed that Mavis had become more stressed as she was worried about poor job prospects for graduates due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

On 1 July 2020 at 8:00 a.m., Eva made a 999 call to the police expressing concern about her daughter, Mavis, who was a US student. Eva explained to the police call handler that her daughter, Mavis, was severely depressed when she last spoke to her 40 minutes ago and that Mavis was thinking of committing suicide. Since that conversation with Mavis, Eva had been unable to contact her. Eva explained that she was unwell and unable to travel to the US to see Mavis. Eva also said that she had unsuccessfully tried to contact the US helpline and so she had contacted the police for help.

The police call handler told Eva that the police would be immediately sent to Mavis’ accommodation at US to check on her and if Mavis needed to be transferred to hospital, the police would arrange it.

The police arrived at Mavis’ US accommodation three hours after Eva’s call and found Mavis dead from an overdose of sleeping pills.

(See the next page for a continuation of Question 7)

Following these events, the following facts have been established by independent witness statements, police, US and hospital reports:

1. The police call handler, who answered Eva's 999 call, after assuring her that the police would immediately go to Mavis' US accommodation, graded the call as Grade 2 (priority attendance within 4 hours);
2. For immediate attendance, the call should have been graded as Grade 1 (immediate response);
3. If the police had responded to the call immediately, they would have arrived in time to prevent Mavis from committing suicide.
4. Eva, as a result of being assured by the police call handler that the police would immediately attend to Mavis, did not try again to call Mavis or the US helpline.

Discuss any tort actions that might be brought against the police in respect of the death of Mavis. Support your discussion with reference to relevant principles and authorities.

Question 8 (25 marks)

In Gloccheski, Tort Law in Hong Kong (Revised Fourth Edition, 2018) page 299, the author states:

“It has already been observed that volenti (non fit injuria) may also arise out of an express agreement between plaintiff and defendant that purports to exclude the liability of the defendant. Such a term, when found in an agreement is known as a disclaimer, or exemption clause....

The Control of Exemption Clauses Ordinance, based on English legislation (the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977) came into force on 1 December 1990...A primary objective of the ordinance is to restrict or at least control the use by business entities of contract terms or notices intended to limit or exclude liability for personal injury.”

- (a) Discuss the elements required to establish the defence of volenti (non fit injuria).

(15 marks)

- (b) Discuss the effect of the Control of Exemption Clauses Ordinance (Cap. 71) on contract terms or notices intended to limit or exclude liability for personal injury.

Part D (Criminal Law)

Question 9 (25 marks)

1. After several hours of visiting numerous bars in Wanchai, Bill goes into a 7-11 convenience store (“7-11”). He walks around. He then sees some sandwiches and picks them up from the shelves. He continues walking. He sees some beers. He takes two cans and puts them in the side pockets of his jacket and holds two other cans and the sandwiches in his hands. He proceeds to the check-out. He puts down the two cans of beer and the sandwiches. He pays for them, takes a receipt in the sum of HK$50 and starts walking out of the store. Just after he passes the entrance, he is stopped by the store detective and asked if he has anything in his pockets. Bill laughs and asks the store detective whether he would like to join him for a beer! He then takes out the two cans from his pockets.
2. The Police are called. He is arrested for theft of the two cans of beer. On the way to the police station, he tells the police officers that he could not recollect taking the two cans of beer and asks them whether they would like to join him for a drink. Bill spends the night in the police cells. He is cautioned. He does not give a statement and is charged with theft, and released on police bail in the sum of HK$500 to appear in the Eastern Magistrates’ Court in three weeks’ time.
3. Bill comes to your office and tells you the following:-
 - (i) He works as an investment banker.
 - (ii) He has never been in trouble before either here or anywhere else in the world.

(See over the page for a continuation of Question 9)

- (iii) He has been under severe stress that evening since his girlfriend had left him.
 - (iv) He has looked at his credit card receipts and had spent HK$15,000 in several bars.
 - (v) He can recollect going into 7-11 and buying some sandwiches. He has no idea why he bought two cans of beer and a further two cans of beer which were found in the pockets of his jacket.
 - (vi) He feels that one of his drinks that evening may have been spiked.
- (a) Set out all steps and advice you should give Bill in order to prepare his defence.
- (13 marks)
- (b) What defences, if any, are available to him?
- (12 marks)

(See the next page for a continuation of Part D)

Question 10 (25 marks)

On the evening of 15 July 2018, Alan, 22 years of age, went up the stairs from the ground floor to the first floor of Lucliff Court (the “Building”). He did so intending to look for his friend. In doing so, he accidentally triggered a burglar alarm. Mr. Boo, a 70-year-old watchman of the Building, confronted Alan by grabbing Alan’s neck in order to prevent him from leaving. Mr. Boo accused Alan of burgling one of the flats in the Building. Feeling insulted, Alan scolded Mr. Boo with foul language, saying: “You accuse me of stealing, fxxx you!” Alan pushed Mr. Boo causing him to fall on the ground. Alan then kicked Mr. Boo’s head four to five times. The altercation alerted Charlie, a resident of the Building. Charlie managed to restrain Alan. The police soon arrived at the scene and arrested Alan for assaulting Mr. Boo.

Mr. Boo fell into a coma after the assault and died in the hospital a couple of days later. The government pathologist who performed an autopsy on Mr. Boo stated in the autopsy report that although the direct cause of death was bronchopneumonia, which is a condition that causes an inflammation of the lungs, the intervening antecedent cause was intracranial bleeding (i.e. blood vessels within the skull are ruptured) and that the underlying antecedent cause was complications of a head injury. Alan was subsequently charged with the offence of murder.

Under caution, Alan claimed that (1) he was furious when being accused of stealing from one of the flats in the Building, (2) he had only used necessary and reasonable force to free himself when he had been grabbed and held by Mr. Boo, and (3) he denied having any intention to cause grievous bodily harm to Mr. Boo.

(See over the page for a continuation of Question 10)

(a) Explain what possible defence or defences Alan can rely on regarding the murder charge against him.

(15 marks)

(b) Discuss the concept of causation of death in the present case.

Question 3 (25 marks)

A few months ago, Alan, a musician, purchased a professional sound system from Rob for HK$80,000. As Alan was a bit short of cash, it was agreed that he could pay Rob in two instalments of HK$50,000 and HK$30,000 respectively, three months apart. However, at the end of three months after paying the initial HK$50,000, Alan failed to pay the second instalment.

Rob found out that Alan had lost his job shortly after making the purchase. Last Monday, Rob met Alan, and, feeling sympathetic, he told Alan that if he paid HK$18,000 of the outstanding amount within one week, Rob would “let him off” with the remaining HK$12,000.

Alan paid HK$18,000 to Rob on Thursday.

On Friday, Alan was notified that he had been successful in one of his job applications and that he could start work on the following Monday, at a salary which was much higher than his previous job.

Rob has heard about Alan’s new job and that Alan will be earning more than sufficient money to pay the full price of the sound system. He approaches Alan to ask for the remaining HK$12,000, but Alan says that since Rob agreed to accept the amount of HK$18,000 in settlement of the balance payment for the purchase, he would not be paying more. Rob is upset and now wants to claim the remaining HK$12,000 from Alan.

- (a) Advise Alan whether Rob has a good claim against him for the balance of HK$12,000.

(15 marks)

- (b) Alan now remembers that when Rob agreed to take HK$18,000 in payment of the outstanding sum, he felt so grateful for Rob's gesture that he gave Rob some much sought-after concert tickets to an upcoming concert by The Low Moons, a popular band. He told Rob that the tickets were given "in consideration of your kindness".

How does this affect your advice in (a)?

Question 4 (25 marks)

Ben is a professor of botany (the study of plants) at Kowloon University. He is also a keen farmer and owns a small plot of land in Sai Kung, New Territories, Hong Kong where he grows plants and vegetables. He has started to grow some melons in anticipation of participating in the annual Hong Kong Home Grown Produce Competition. He is very proud of the many prizes he has won for his outstanding melons.

Ben needed to buy some fertilizer and visited Bloom N Grow, a well-known shop which sells gardening supplies such as tools, seeds and fertilizers. Ben studied the chemical composition of the different brands written on the packets, since he noticed that there was a wide price range amongst the brands. He had always used a top brand, but wanted to find something cheaper.

Ben asked Matt, a temporary shop assistant, for recommendations on which brand to buy. Matt was not familiar with growing plants or fertilizer composition. He suggested that Ben should try the new (and cheaper) “Grow High” brand. Ben was in a hurry and decided to buy a bag of “Grow High”.

The sales invoice stated:

- “1. Bloom N Grow will refund the purchase price paid for goods which do not meet recognised quality standards with any product.
2. Bloom N Grow does not give any undertaking as to the suitability or fitness of goods purchased for any particular purpose.
3. Any damages or compensation payable shall not exceed the purchase price of the goods sold.”

Ben did not read the invoice but quickly signed it and paid for the fertilizer.

Ben followed the instructions on the fertilizer pack and sprayed the leaves of his melon plants. That night there was heavy rain, which washed away most of the fertilizer before it took effect. Ben did not realise this as this was the first time he had used fertilizer in a spray form.

Ben's melon plants grew poorly and could not be entered into the Hong Kong Home Grown Produce Competition. He was upset and embarrassed and was unable to concentrate on work. His end-of-year university appraisal was poor and he failed to get the salary rise that he was expecting,

Ben wishes to sue Bloom N Grow for the purchase price of the fertilizer, loss of the competition prize money, loss of the salary increase he was expecting, doctor's fees and stress medication.

Bloom N Grow denies liability, and argues that it is also protected by the invoice terms and the maximum amount of its liability is the purchase price paid by Ben.

- (a) Are there any legal grounds on which Ben may make a claim against Bloom N Grow? (10 marks)
- (b) If the above grounds are valid, and Bloom N Grow is in breach of the sales contract with Ben, what is the impact of the three terms that are written on the invoice? (8 marks)
- (c) If Bloom N Grow is liable to Ben and cannot claim protection from the terms written on the invoice, what would be the remedies available to Ben? (7 marks)

Part C (Introduction to Law of Torts)

Question 5 (25 marks)

In Gkofcheski, Tort Law in Hong Kong (Revised Fourth Edition 2018) p. 158, the author states:

“Duty of care serves to carve out the boundaries of liability in negligence. Not everyone who causes injury will bear responsibility. Only those found to owe a duty of care will be answerable for any damage caused. Duty of care is an issue of law, and as such carries influence as precedent. The judges have this in mind in deciding cases on duty of care. Thus, there is a large policy dimension in the determination of this issue.”

Discuss, with reference to relevant principles and cases:

(a) How important precedent is in determining the existence of a duty of care in a negligence claim;

(5 marks)

(b) How the Hong Kong courts determine the existence of a duty of care in a negligence claim; and

(10 marks)

(c) How policy is involved in determining the existence of a duty of care in a negligence claim.

Question 6 (25 marks)

Albert Au owns a popular discount store in Taipo, New Territories, Hong Kong, Albert's Adventures ("AA"), which sells all kinds of household goods.

In order to protect the safety of his customers and to comply with the law during the COVID-19 pandemic, Albert requires all persons entering AA to wear a face mask.

Albert has a person posted at the only entrance to AA to ensure all persons entering AA wear a face mask.

On 30 June 2021, Bert Bong ("Bert"), a large 20-year-old youth, was on duty at the entrance to AA. Bert was a convicted prisoner permitted to work on day release from prison. The Hong Kong Prison Service had agreed with Albert that Bert could fulfill his day release conditions by working at AA. Bert works 15 hours a week at AA. He was given basic training on how to deal with customers entering AA and to politely refuse entry to anyone not wearing a face mask. Bert is not paid for his work at AA.

Whilst on duty at the entrance to AA on 30 June 2021, Bert noticed an old woman, Christine Chan ("Christine"), not wearing a face mask approaching the AA's entrance. Bert immediately ran towards Christine cursing at her and yelling at her not to enter AA. As Bert approached Christine, he waved his fist at her and said, "If you were not an old lady, I would pick you up and throw you out of the store if you try to enter without a face mask."

As Bert approached Christine, he slipped on a puddle of water that had formed at the AA entrance following a recent heavy rain shower. As a result of slipping, Bert fell over and landed on Christine knocking her over. As a result of the fall, Bert suffered a hand injury and Christine a serious head injury.

Don Ding (“Don”), a passing pedestrian, noticed Bert and Christine falling over and immediately ran over to help them. In doing so, Don also slipped on the puddle of water at the AA entrance and fell over suffering a serious leg injury.

Advise ALL parties suffering loss or injury as to their possible tort claims for recovering damages for their losses and injuries. Discuss all relevant causes of action and defences together with the relevant legal principles and cases.

Question 7 (25 marks)

INTRODUCTION

1. A has been in the business of trading diamonds in Hong Kong for over 15 years. He has a small office in Kowloon. A sources his diamonds from Z who is based in Antwerp, Belgium.
2. The trading of diamonds is by way of consignment. This means that A will receive diamonds from Z and in turn, will attempt to sell them. The property/ownership remains with Z.
3. The trading of diamonds, worldwide, is characterised by way of trust and reputation. The diamond dealers know each other and rely on each other's reputation. The documentation is simple and sparse. A consignment document will identify the particular stone by reference to colour, identity and specific numbering. A and Z have been in business for many years and there has never been any issues or difficulties between them. A keeps Z's diamonds in his safe. He sells them to other dealers who sometimes pay immediately or within 30 days. Successful sales are noted and each month A accounts to Z with the proceeds less his commission.
4. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, business has been very bad over the past 12 months. A has suffered badly and has been chased by debt collectors in respect of outstanding rent and credit card expenditure.

(See the next page for a continuation of Question 7)

5. A decides to take some of Z's diamonds to a pawnbroker. He deposits 4 stones and receives HK$500,000. The value of these 4 stones are approximately HK$1 million.
6. A then sent to Z a postdated cheque in the sum of HK$500,000. He enclosed a short note which stated: "Please see attached. As you will see, this is dated one month from today's date. I can assure you that there will be monies in my account at that time. Please consider this to be a good faith payment."
7. Z presented the cheque he had received from A. The cheque was returned to drawer with a note from the bank "no funds in the account". Z sent an email to A stating that he was devastated that the cheque had not been met on presentation.
8. However, A's financial position deteriorated. He was not able to trade his way out of his difficulties. He was not in a position to redeem Z's diamonds from the pawnbroker.
9. Z had not received any updates from A as to the diamonds that were placed on consignment. He demanded the return of all his diamonds. A informed Z that he is hopeful that he will be able to sell them and told him not to worry. Z then finds out from another diamond dealer that the pawnbroker had sold the diamonds that were consigned and placed with A.
10. Z immediately files a police report with the Hong Kong Police Force. The Police investigated. Subsequently A was arrested and charged.

Question 8 (25 marks)

Ken and Daisy were lovers and were in the habit of consuming methamphetamine hydrochloride, commonly known as 'Ice'. In the morning on 14 February 2019, they were consuming Ice at home with their friend, Irene. Shortly afterwards, Irene fell asleep. She was woken upon hearing Ken and Daisy shouting and screaming at each other. Daisy kept yelling at Ken, "How dare you hit me first!". She saw Ken and Daisy were fighting with each other and each was bleeding. Irene's efforts to stop the fight were unsuccessful. Irene's hands and clothing were covered in blood from her efforts to stop the fight. She could not say what it was that caused so much bleeding when Ken and Daisy were fighting.

In a state of panic, Irene rushed to the nearby police station for help. She led two officers back to the scene where they found Ken sitting on a chair, breathing heavily. Daisy was lying on the floor and bleeding profusely. The officers quickly arrested Ken.

Daisy was conveyed to hospital where she was certified dead. An autopsy revealed multiple injuries to her head. Ice was detected in a blood sample taken from Daisy. A test on a sample of Ken's urine that was collected after his arrest also revealed the presence of Ice.

In a video interview, Ken told the police under caution:

- (i) At the time he assaulted Daisy, he did not have an intention to kill her or an intention to cause her grievous bodily harm;
- (ii) He assaulted Daisy as she had repeatedly kicked, scratched and punched him. He felt intense pain all over his body as a result;

(See over the page for a continuation of Question 8)

- (iii) He had a long history of drug abuse. He was, moments before the killing, fighting with Daisy over who would take the remaining quantity of Ice.

Ken was medically and psychiatrically assessed by various doctors after the arrest. The doctors expressed the opinion that-

- (i) Multiple injuries were detected all over Ken's body after he was arrested;
- (ii) Ken was addicted to Ice, a drug which can cause mind-altering effects on the user, such as hallucinations, delusions and paranoia;
- (iii) The killing took place whilst Ken was experiencing a psychotic episode triggered by his consumption of Ice;
- (iv) Ken had been abusing Ice for over 10 years. He was suffering from a persistent and active psychotic disorder.

Ken was charged with the offence of murder, contrary to the common law.

- (a) Discuss what possible defence or defences Ken can rely on regarding the murder charge against him.

(17 marks)

- (b) Assume that Ken is not a drug addict, but instead an occasional drinker, and he kills Daisy when he is under the influence of alcohol. Explain whether Ken can rely on drunkenness as a defence.

Question 3 (25 marks)

The COVID-19 pandemic has badly affected the business of Carol's music school. In order to promote business in the new academic year, Carol decided to do more postings on social media and offer discounts on fees. Starting from July 2022, she has placed advertisements on LinkedIn, Facebook and Instagram. She also emailed information to current students, and placed physical copies of the information poster and registration form at the entrance to her school.

The poster reads as follows: "You will enjoy all music classes at a 15% discount for the 2022/23 academic year if you personally subscribe to our Facebook page. In addition, the first five persons who successfully register for our beginners' classes will receive three free lessons. Get the offer by scanning this QR code and completing and submitting the registration form online, or by filling in the form below and submitting it by email or in person to our school."

Assume that Amy, Bob, Cathy, Dan and Eva are the first five persons to respond to Carol's promotion, as follows:

- Amy scanned the QR Code and filled in her brother's name online for the violin beginner's class. She also personally subscribed to the Facebook page of Carol's music school.
- Bob (who knows Carol well) had no time to fill in the form and just emailed Carol to request registration for flute beginner's lessons for his daughter. Bob subscribed to the Facebook page of Carol's music school.

- Cathy accidentally scanned the QR code of a poster which was next to one of Carol's posters and therefore never registered for the cello beginner's classes at Carol's music school. Cathy subscribed to the Facebook page of Carol's music school.
- Dan filled in the registration form and delivered it personally to Carol's music school. However, the receptionist misplaced the form and Dan was never registered. Dan subscribed to the Facebook page of Carol's music school.
- Eva registered online for viola beginner's lessons, but asked her secretary to subscribe to the Facebook page of Carol's music school.

Classes started on 1 September 2022. On 1 September 2022, Amy's brother, Bob (bringing his daughter), Cathy, Dan and Eva all turned up at the first class, demanding the discount and the free lessons.

Advise Carol whether the followings are entitled to the 15% discount and the free lessons:

Question 4 (25 marks)

- (a) Jay owns a small café and employs two waitresses, Kate and Lily.

Kate falls ill with COVID-19 while on holiday, and Jay tells her not to come back to the café till she has recovered. However, Jay does not want to employ extra staff while Kate is away, so he asks Lily to work longer hours until Kate is able to come back to work. He promises Lily that he will pay her a bonus for doing so. Lily is happy to help out and she works very hard, but Jay does not pay her extra money.

Kate and Lily usually take turns to purchase and collect the flowers for the tables in the café. Since Kate is ill, the florist, Flora, offers to deliver the flowers to the café until Kate returns to work. Jay saw Flora a few days while she was making a delivery, and mentioned that he would pay for the delivery charges. After Kate returns to work, Jay receives Flora's invoice for the flowers which includes the delivery charges. Jay finds the delivery charges too expensive and now refuses to pay them.

Consider and answer the following (ignore employment law implications):

- (i) Does Lily have a good claim against Jay for the bonus for her extra work while Kate is away?

(5 marks)

- (ii) Does Flora have a good claim against Jay for the delivery charges in making the flower deliveries?

(b) Great Wall Restaurant is a popular restaurant. Henry, Sarah and Linda have signed a contract to hire a big function room in the restaurant as a venue for their parents' wedding anniversary dinner. On the evening of the dinner, the following happen:

- The floor is slippery as the staff have been cleaning it often due to COVID concerns but did not dry it properly. Henry slips on the floor and injures his hip which needs medical attention. He is a tennis coach and his injury has forced him to cancel many lessons with students.
- Sarah slips on the floor when she gets up to go to the washroom, but manages to hang onto a table and is not injured. However, with the movement of the table, a very expensive bottle of wine on the table which she ordered, falls and the glass shatters on the ground, spilling the wine everywhere. Sarah refuses to pay for the wine.
- Linda hangs her handbag on the chair she is sitting on, but after dinner, she discovers that her handbag has been stolen.

The restaurant has a sign at the front which says: "Watch your belongings carefully. We are not responsible for any loss or damage to property or any personal injury, however caused." The contract of hire contains a similar provision.

Question 5 (25 marks)

Late one Saturday night in June 2022, some patrons at the Pink Orchid nightclub (“Nightclub”) had drunk more than was good for them. KK, one of these patrons, became disoriented and aggressive. He began to lash out at people around him, punching and kicking them. Charlie, a crowd supervisor in the Nightclub, saw the commotion and decided to remove KK from the premises. He rushed over to KK and restrained him round the arms “in a bear hug” and marched him from the premises. Outside the Nightclub, Charlie sat KK down on a bench on the public footpath and told him to go home.

KK was so drunk that he could not accept that his night had ended. He therefore went around the side of the building where he managed to re-enter the Nightclub through a fire exit door. After a while, Charlie noted KK staggering around the dance floor again. It enraged him to think that anyone dared to defy him, so he stormed over to KK and said: “I told you not to come back tonight.” With this, he punched KK, knocking him to the floor. Paolo, another doorman, came to the scene, and Paolo and Charlie then dragged KK to a private room where he was left to sober up. An hour later, when KK had sobered up a little, Paolo guided KK out the side door of the Nightclub.

KK was angry about the treatment he had received from Charlie. From the street, he went back to the front of the Nightclub and made a racially offensive remark to Charlie. Charlie had suffered racist taunts throughout his youth and KK’s words hit a raw nerve. Charlie looked as if he would explode and he lunged for KK. Out of fear, KK tried to flee. In panic, he ran into the road and was hit by a vehicle driven by Yasmina. Yasmina was driving carefully and could not have avoided the collision.

Yasmina suffered no physical injury as a result of the collision. However, the collision brought back the memories of the trauma that her partner, Helen, a tram driver, had suffered some years back. Helen had to undergo trauma counselling and was compelled to give up her work when a person committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a tram that she was driving. Yasmina feared the same for herself and, indeed, she did develop a severe, long-term psychiatric reaction following the accident. Fortunately, KK did recover fully from the injuries he suffered in the accident.

The Nightclub is licensed under the Dutiable Commodities (Liquor) Regulations (Cap.109B). The Licensing Conditions for the Liquor Licence relevantly provide:

1. No disorder shall be permitted on the premises.
2. No person shall be allowed to become drunk on the premises, nor shall liquor be supplied to any person who is drunk.

The crowd controllers, including Charlie, were provided by Bouncers-R-Us Ltd., who trained all its staff and registered them with the relevant authorities. The employment contracts between Bouncers-R-Us Ltd. and its staff contain a detailed Code of Conduct (“Code”), the breach of which constitutes grounds for immediate dismissal. The Code provides, amongst other things, that the crowd controllers may only use “reasonable force” in the exercise of their functions, which include assisting the Nightclub in ensuring compliance with its licensing conditions.

(See over the page for a continuation of Question 5)

Provide the following advice, giving full reasons and referring to relevant principles and authorities, as well as considering also any relevant defences:

(a) Is Charlie liable to KK for trespass to person?

(b) Is Charlie liable in negligence for the mental harm suffered by Yasmina?

(c) Is Bouncers-R-Us Ltd. liable for Charlie's actions?

Question 6 (25 marks)

Belle's Beauty Clinic ("BBC") is a private hospital specialising in cosmetic procedures. Most of its clientele attend as out-patients, but there is also a hospital ward at which more invasive procedures are undertaken for in-patients.

During the pandemic, BBC adopted a strict hygiene regime aimed at keeping its staff and patients safe from the SARS-CoV-2 virus. The measures put in place were in line, or exceeded, the requirements of applicable government regulations. Under this regime, no visitors were allowed in the ward, and all patients needed to have a Polymerase Chain Reaction ("PCR") test prior to admission. All workers at the hospital needed to undertake a daily rapid antigen test for COVID-19 ("RAT") and record the result in an online system operated by BBC. If the RAT returned a positive result, the worker needed to take a PCR-test and could only return to work if the result was negative or after they recovered from COVID-19.

Crystal Wong ("Crystal"), a fourth-year medical student, undertook a clinical placement as a student intern at BBC. She was keen to get work experience at the hospital because it was her dream to work as a cosmetic surgeon one day. One morning in July 2022, she noticed that she had run out of RAT kits and decided to record a negative result despite not having undertaken any test that morning. She had planned to do the RAT when she arrived for work at BBC but then forgot to do so.

A few days after later, there was a COVID-19 outbreak in the BBC hospital ward. One of the patients infected during the outbreak was Mandy Leung ("Mandy"). Mandy became seriously sick and is still suffering from long COVID, a disabling condition that required her to give up her position as a swimming coach in an international school.

Unfortunately, Mandy had chosen to remain unvaccinated because she had been worried about possible long-term effects of vaccination. Mandy knew that full vaccination can reduce the chance of infection and drastically reduces the risk of seriously adverse outcomes from COVID-19. However, Mandy blames the BBC for her situation because, in her view, BBC should have had in place a stricter pandemic regime that did not rely on workers self-reporting but required them to undergo testing under supervision each day.

After the outbreak, the in-patient ward was closed for one week for deep cleaning while the source of the outbreak was being investigated. The investigation concluded that it was likely that Crystal was the source of the outbreak after it was discovered that Crystal tested positive for the virus and had close personal contact with Mandy and all other infected patients. When a local newspaper, NT News, reported that “an irresponsible staff member” was the cause of the outbreak at BBC, the reputation of BBC took a hit, leading to severe downturn in bookings and revenue.

Provide the following advice, giving full reasons and referring to relevant legal principles and authorities:

(a) Can Mandy successfully sue Crystal, BBC, or both, in negligence for causing her sickness and, if so, are there any applicable defences?

(12 marks)

(b) Does Crystal owe a duty of care to BBC in relation to the loss of revenue suffered as a result of the outbreak?

W was shopping at ParknShop with a trolley. She selected various items. She proceeded to the automatic checkout. A store employee was watching her. She scanned 7 items and used her credit card to pay and obtained a receipt. She put the items into her bag and walked out of the store. W was confronted by the store employee and in her bag, there were 10 items. When asked to explain why she did not scan 3 of the items (worth a total of HK$150), W asserted that she might have forgotten and was somewhat stressed and absent-minded.

The next day, W was walking along Pedder Street. On the pavement, there was a HK$500 note. She picked it up, looked around and then put the note into her purse. A police officer watched her and in turn, arrested her.

Question 8 (25 marks)

Henry refused to pay back a gambling debt that he owed Andy, a triad boss. The dispute of unpaid debt resulted in developing a strong animosity between them. Andy showed a photo of Henry to a group of 7 gang members, amongst whom were Bob and Charles, telling them to be ready to “teach Henry a lesson one day”.

In the evening of 7 July 2021, Andy noticed Henry in an open area of a tavern called American Bar. Henry was spotted drinking with an unknown male who was later identified as Ivan. Andy immediately summoned the 7 gang members to go to American Bar to “let Henry have some fun”. Bob picked up the gang with his 7-seater vehicle and drove to American Bar. All members, except Bob, were armed with baseball bats, cleavers and machetes.

Henry and Ivan noticed the 7-seater vehicle circling the tavern a couple of times at slow speed. The driver, Bob, was looking in Henry’s direction every time when the vehicle went past the tavern. Though Henry sensed danger, he was unconcerned as Ivan is an expert in martial arts.

Moments later, the group alighted from the vehicle whilst Bob remained in the driver’s seat. Charles pointed at Henry and shouted “this is the guy”. The gang rushed towards Henry with weapons. In a split second, the group chopped and stabbed Henry numerous times. Ivan, upon seeing this, quickly snatched the machete from one of the assailants, Charles, and struck him in the head. The incident ended with the deaths of Henry and Charles.

(See the next page for a continuation of Question 8)

The autopsy reports indicated the cause of death of Henry was multiple puncture wounds to the neck, heart and lung. Charles, on the other hand, suffered a shattered skull.

Bob was arrested days later. He was charged with the offence of murder. He voluntarily admitted to the police under caution emphasizing that:

- (1) he did not participate in attacking Henry,
- (2) only those who took part in the actual assault of Henry should be responsible for the death of Henry, and
- (3) he just followed the instructions of Andy, but the instructions were vague, he did not expect any of the attackers to have gone as far as assaulting Henry fatally.

Ivan was also arrested and charged with murdering Charles. He remained silent under caution.

Discuss:

- (a) The actus reus and mens rea of murder.

- (b) The evolution of the doctrine of “malice aforethought”. Is this doctrine applicable in modern law of Hong Kong?
