PERSONAL DATA (PRIVACY) LAW IN HONG KONG

A Practical Guide on Compliance (Third Edition)

Highlights:

- Provisions of the PDPO on combatting doxxing
- Cross-border transfers of personal data from Hong Kong
- The Mainland's personal information protection regime
- Recent decisions by the Administrative Appeals Board and the Court
- PCPD's investigation reports and materials
- Comparison table on the personal data protection laws of Hong Kong, the Mainland and the European Union

Ms Ada CHUNG
Lai-ling, SBS

Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data, Hong Kong

Professor ZHU
Guobin, JP

Professor, School of Law,
City University of Hong Kong

This book provides a comprehensive overview and explanations on the requirements and data protection principles under the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (PDPO), using decided cases and everyday examples for illustration. It also encompasses an account of the supervision and enforcement work carried out by the Office of the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data pursuant to provisions of the PDPO. We believe that the book would enhance the understanding of legal practitioners, students and privacy law enthusiasts on Hong Kong's privacy law and serve as a reliable source of reference for navigating the complexities of this evolving field.

Advanced Seminar on Law and Technology

LegalAI Research via a Technological Perspective

Yiquan Wu

ZJU-100 Young Professor

Zhejiang University Guanghua Law School

Date: September 15, 2025 (Monday)

Time: 4pm – 5pm

Venue: Academic Conference Room,

11/F Cheng Yu Tung Tower, The University of Hong Kong

This talk reviews the trajectory of LegalAI research from task-specific models to LLM-based systems. In its earlier stage, the work focused on automatic trials under a “one model, one task” paradigm, addressing judicial questioning, court’s view generation, and judgment prediction with attention to interpretability and fairness. More recently, the research has shifted toward large legal models, represented by Zhihai-Luwen, which are constructed through continued pretraining, supervised fine-tuning, and retrieval-augmented generation (RAG). These models are further applied through large–small model collaboration and counter-questioning strategies in judicial scenarios. This evolution highlights the shift from narrow automation to general-purpose legal intelligence.

Yiquan Wu is an Assistant Professor (ZJU-100 Young Professor, Doctoral Supervisor) at Zhejiang University. He received his Ph.D. and B.S. degrees from Zhejiang University. His research interests encompass LegalAI, Large Language Models, Natural Language Processing, and Causal Inference. He has published over 20 papers in prestigious conferences and journals such as ACL, EMNLP, NAACL, SIGIR, AAAI, KDD, and WWW.

Moderator: Benjamin Chen, Associate Professor & Director of the Law and Technology Centre, The University of Hong Kong Faculty of Law

To register, please go to bit.ly/3Hlujdo or scan the QR code. A paper will be circulated in advance and attendees will be expected to have read the paper before the seminar.

We are applying for a CPD point with the Law Society of Hong Kong.
