These grounds are set out in Rule 2 of the Practising Certificate (Solicitors) (Grounds for Refusal) Rules (Cap. 159N) (“Refusal Rules”).
2. Rule 2 of the Refusal Rules provides that for the purposes of Section 6(5)(a) of LPO, the grounds on which the Law Society may refuse to issue a practising certificate are:-

  - (b) the applicant is, by reason of his financial position, mental capacity or otherwise, unfit to practise as a solicitor.
3. Members are reminded of the statutory 14-day period specified under Rule 3 of the Refusal Rules to submit written representations following the Law Society’s notice that consideration is being given to refuse the issuance of a practising certificate. Failure to respond, or the submission of incomplete or inadequate representations, may result in delays or refusal of the practising certificate.
4. Members practising as sole proprietors are specifically reminded that the operation of their firms cannot continue in the absence of a valid practising certificate. Accordingly, contingency arrangements should be in place in anticipation of any potential refusal.

CIRCULAR 25-660 (SD)

2 October 2025

25-660 (SD) CONTINUING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT (“CPD”) AND RISK MANAGEMENT EDUCATION (“RME”) REQUIREMENTS FOR THE 2024/25 CPD/RME PRACTICE YEAR (Repeat Circular)

This Circular serves as a reminder of the CPD and RME requirements for the 2024/25 CPD/RME practice year and different ways in which the CPD and RME requirements may be met for solicitors, trainee solicitors and registered foreign lawyers, and matters ancillary thereto.

Ways in which the CPD and RME requirements may be met

1. There are a variety of ways for practitioners to meet their CPD requirements. Apart from attending courses, practitioners may undertake other activities to meet their CPD and RME requirements. These activities include writing articles and books, conducting legal research, writing dissertations, preparing for, presenting and facilitating approved training courses, participating in the work of approved Committees and institutions, and conducting coaching. These activities, other than being accredited with CPD points, would enable and facilitate interaction between senior and junior members of the profession and encourage passing on skills, knowledge and good tradition.

The accreditation guidelines of CPD and RME activities are set out in the following Information Packages:

CPD Information Package – (pages 9 to 21)

RME Information Package – (pages 21 to 28)

2. As always, the Law Society (“Society”) encourages practitioners to participate in pro bono work. If a pro bono activity is law-related and meets accreditation criteria of CPD activities, the organiser of the activity may apply to the Society for CPD accreditation of the activity. The accreditation criteria of CPD activities are set out on pages 1 and 2 of the CPD Information Package.

3. Alternatively, if a pro bono activity is law-related and involves delivery of talk, seminars or presentation at conference, instead of having the organiser applying for CPD accreditation of the activity, a practitioner may be able to claim CPD point(s) under the deemed accreditation system. Details of the deemed accreditation system are set out in Guideline 10 of the CPD Information Package.

CPD requirements of solicitors

4. A solicitor holding a current practising certificate for the 2024/25 CPD practice year, which commenced on 1 November 2024 and ends on 31 October 2025, is required under rule 5 of the CPD Rules to accumulate 15 CPD points.

RME requirements of solicitors and registered foreign lawyers (“RFLs”) practising in Hong Kong Law Firms (“HK Firms”)

5. In the 2024/25 RME practice year ending on 31 October 2025:
- (a) a principal is required under rule 6 of the RME Rules to complete a core course for principals if this is the first practice year a solicitor becomes a sole proprietor or a partner and has been practising as such for 100 days or more;
  - (b) a non-principal solicitor is required under rule 5 of the RME Rules to complete a core course for non-principals if this is the first practice year a person becomes an assistant solicitor or a consultant and has been practising as such for 100 days or more. Trainee solicitors who have completed the trainee solicitor’s core courses and the compulsory first elective are exempt from completing the non-principal’s core course during the practice year in which they commence practice as a non-principal solicitor in a HK Firm after their admission as a HK solicitor. They are nevertheless subject to the annual RME elective obligations applicable to non-principal solicitors;
  - (c) an RFL practising in a HK Firm is required under rule 5 of the RME Rules to complete a core course for RFLs if this is the first practice year a person becomes an RFL and has been practising as such in a HK Firm for 100 days or more; or
  - (d) where rule 7 of the RME Rules applies, principals, non-principal solicitors, and RFLs are required under rule 7 of the RME Rules to complete 3 hours of RME courses or 6 hours if they have not done so in the immediately preceding RME practice year.

CPD and RME requirements of trainee solicitors

6. (a) Trainee solicitors are required to accumulate 15 CPD points (or where appropriate, complete the pro-rated annual CPD requirement set out in Table A of the CPD Information Package) in the 2024/25 CPD practice year;

- (b) They are also required to complete the trainee solicitor's core courses in the 2024/25 RME practice year if it is the first RME practice year in which the RME Rules apply to them (i.e. they are employed as trainee solicitors for 100 days or more in the current RME practice year), or the compulsory first elective in the 2024/25 RME practice year if it is the second RME practice year in which the RME Rules apply to them.

7. Compliance with the CPD and RME obligations is a condition precedent to admission as a solicitor in Hong Kong.

CPD requirements in mediation training

8. A solicitor-mediator on the Panel of General Mediators, Panel of Family Mediators or Panel of Family Mediation Supervisors of the Society ("Panels of Mediators of the Society") is required to accumulate not less than 20 CPD points in mediation training out of his or her annual CPD requirement during the 4 CPD practice years immediately preceding his or her application for renewal of Panel membership. Details of the CPD requirement for solicitor-mediators are set out on page 4 of the CPD Information Package.

Carrying over excess CPD points

9. Solicitors are permitted to carry over a maximum of 10 CPD points accumulated in excess of the CPD requirement in a CPD practice year to the immediately succeeding CPD practice year only.
10. As an exception to the normal carry over policy, a principal who has completed all requisite modules of the RME core courses for principals within the practice year specified under rule 6 of the RME Rules is permitted to carry over a maximum of 15 excess CPD points in a CPD practice year to the next immediately succeeding CPD practice year only.
11. In respect of RME elective courses, the following carry over policy set out in paragraph 4 of Section B of the RME Information Package applies:-
- (a) a solicitor may utilize a maximum of 3 CPD points obtained from completion of RME electives in excess of his or her annual CPD requirements to satisfy the RME elective requirement in the succeeding RME practice year only;
- (b) an RFL may utilize a maximum of 3 CPD points obtained from completion of RME electives in excess of his or her annual RME elective requirements to satisfy the RME elective requirement in the succeeding RME practice year only.
12. The normal carry over policy set out in paragraph 9 is also applicable to trainee solicitors. However, any excess CPD points accumulated during employment under the trainee solicitor contract cannot be carried over to the CPD practice year in which a trainee solicitor has been admitted as a solicitor.
